Green Art Music Project by
MAX CASTLUNGER

Max Castlunger is a versatile musician from Val Badia in South Tyrol, who not only works as a musician and music teacher, but also as an instrument maker. With his self-made instruments from old and used materials he creates unique sound experiences.

In addition to his active concert activities with bands and artists such as Herbert Pixner, Jemm Music Project, Savana Funk and Sissamba, he organizes workshops, live shows and exhibitions to share his passion for music and craft with others.

His creative approach combines tradition with innovation and promotes awareness of sustainable for sustainable music production.

UPCYCLING BAND

Mirko Pedrotti - Georg Malfertheiner
Max Castlunger - Manfred Gampenrieder

The Upcycling Band is a fascinating ensemble of four professional drummers and percussionists and multi-instrumentalists from the Trentino-South Tyrol region. They represent all three language groups of the region - German, Italian and Ladin - and use music as a universal form of communication.

In the spirit of sustainability, they play exclusively on instruments and sound objects built by Max Castlunger himself made from used materials. This not only provides a unique sound experience, but also a visual enrichment. Their music is inspired by various global music cultures and takes the audience to distant lands. Over 50 original musical instruments are used on stage to create unexpected sounds.

The band has already played at numerous prestigious events, including the Sustainability Days Bolzano, 10th Bavarian CSR Day Munich, Ambria Jazz Festival, Sella Ronda Hero, Runkelstein Castle, Euregio Cultural Center Grand Hotel Toblach, 2nd Festival of the Regions Turin, House of Museums Olten (CH), Naturmuseum Thurgau (CH), Historisches Musik Basel Musikmuseum (CH) and many more. Their performances are an impressive
